HISTORIC CITY CENTRE

Dear visitors of Celje!

It gives me great pleasure that you have selected Celje as your travel destination or have included it on your list of places to visit for either one day or to spend a longer break in. I am positive that you will be enthralled by our city as a tourist destination that offers many adventures for various tastes and age groups. During recent years, the city has invested a large amount of funds, particularly into its tourism facilities and also into the revamping of the historic city centre. We continue to strive to improve the quality of living of our inhabitants and to also improve your quality of stay as our visitor. It is no coincidence that the city of Celje also constitutes the regional hub of a larger tourist area – the Land of Celje (which encompasses 21 municipalities) – and that, jointly with tourism service providers from the surrounding municipalities, creates a unique range of tourism services that provide you with pleasant and unforgettable memories. Tourism as an industry will continue to constitute one of our main priorities during the following Programming Period 2014–2020.

Return back to Celje, and I guarantee that our city will never fail to be interesting, new and, most of all, inviting!

Wishing you a great day or break in our small city – small compared to European capitals but large in terms of heart!

Welcome!

Bojan Šrot,
Mayor of the Urban Municipality of Celje

Special attention of tourists has been paid to Celje from time immemorial – our glorious history and the Counts of Cilli are well-known among foreign visitors as well. Old Castle Celje is the most popular tourist sight in the city that attracts as many as 70,000 visitors per year. The number of visitors to Celeia – The City Below the City that unveils the rich history of Roman Celje and provides for an unique experience – has also been experiencing a steady rise. The growing number of visitors and overnight stays throughout recent years is the result of either revamped or brand new tourism facilities and collaboration among various organisations in Celje with which we jointly create various events in all seasons that are visible throughout Slovenia as well.

The modernisation of accommodation capacities in the city and the growing interest of private tourism investors indicate that Celje is a tourist destination. Our city can take pride in the professional hotel staff and other tourism operators, friendly traders and innkeepers, helpful tourist information staff and the excellent knowledge and individual approach to organised tours of our local tourist guides.

Our organisation operates two Tourist Information Centres: one in the historic city centre and the other at Old Castle Celje, where the tourist information staff will be more than happy to provide you with all the information you seek. We are here for you and your wishes. Because we love our city and want you to love it as well.

Wishing you pleasant experiences in our city!

Milena Čeko Pungartnik, MA,
*Head of the Institution for Cultural Events and Tourism
Celeia Celje*

CELJE

Celje – diverse and rich experiences in a small area. Romantic streets in the historic city centre, small corners for secret conversations at the city park, architecture that unveils the richness and diversity of the past and rich content provided by museums, galleries and theatres. All of that in the city centre and only a few steps away.

CELJE THROUGH TIME

The appearance of Celje discreetly combines Antique and Medieval heritage and a modern urban environment. Well-preserved paved Roman streets, magnificent castles and the remnants of the Medieval walls in the city centre bear witness to its rich history that dates back to the Celts and Romans. Because of a favourable geographic location and living conditions, the area was settled about 300 B. C. by the Celts, who established a powerful Celtic settlement Keleia.

The Celts were followed by the Romans. During the reign of the Roman Emperor Claudius (41–54), Keleia became the Municipium Claudium Celeia. The city, which was also called Troia Secunda (The Second Troy), became a significant traffic and trade hub from where transport links to other parts of Europe ran. Following a major natural disaster that took place at the end of the 3rd century and subsequent Gothic and Hunnic invasions, the city experienced a decline until at least 452, when the densely populated Celeia was destroyed by the Huns. The reign of the Counts of Celje, who actively shaped political developments in Europe and were involved in the top-level European political scene, constitutes an important milestone in the history of the city in the Middle Ages. The Counts reached their peak of power during the reign of Herman II. Only one year after his death (in 1436), his two successors, his son Frederick II and grandson Ulrich II, were elevated to the ranks of Princes of the Holy Roman Empire in Prague. During the same period of time, in 1451, Celje was also granted city rights that also favourably contributed to its development. After the male line of the Counts of Celje died out with Ulrich II, the city was handed over to the Habsburgs on the basis of an inheritance agreement. Subsequent historical events and socio-political developments resulted in a large number of changes in terms of development of the city. The construction of the railway that, in 1846, connected Celje to Northern and Western Europe undoubtedly marked an important milestone. More recently, the city has been experiencing exceptionally fast development with regard to urbanisation, transport infrastructure and modern industry and even more recently also with regard to education, health care, business and culture. Nowadays, Celje constitutes the business, economic, cultural, educational, health care and tourism centre of the region with a regional administrative function.

The revamped city centre has provided it with a new and attractive image. Revamped squares and streets, urban facilities and the fountain are popular meeting points and promenades for both locals and all visitors to the city.

Celje is also the regional hub of the LAND OF CELJE regional destination that encompasses 21 surrounding municipalities and covers an area of 1,598 km². The intriguing destination in all seasons is predominantly marked by its geographically diverse landscape filled with valleys surrounded by mountains and high hills. The area includes six state-of-the-art thermal spas (Terme Dobrna, Rogaška Slatina Group, Rimske terme, Thermana Laško, Terme Olimia and Terme Zreče) that provide its visitors with all the comfort that wellness and professional medical care can offer. The area is full of cultural and historical sights and numerous natural endowments. Many a castle, manor, convent, preserved city and market centre as well as open-air museum bears witness to its rich history. Well-marked pathways as well as hiking and cycling trails take you through the intact nature of our nature parks and to our ski resorts in the winter and breath-taking golf courses in the summer.

AROUND THE CITY CENTRE

Surrender to the atmosphere of the hustle and bustle on the street and, while walking around the city centre, look around you... Don't worry, you will not get lost. A new experience awaits you around each and every corner. Paved streets that run along the Medieval city walls, impressive façades and welcoming squares – join the locals and experience the pulse of the city through their eyes.

Locals are proud of all they possess and are renowned for being appreciative of spending leisure time in a high-quality manner.

And do not forget about the city park located only a few steps from the city centre, providing you with an urban beach during summer, a pleasant and convivial area for all generations.

STROLL AROUND THE CITY CENTRE

Take a stroll around the city centre from Krekov trg (Krek Square).

THE RAILWAY STATION WITH THE PLANE TREE 1

The two-storey railway station was built in 1846 when the first train arrived to Celje. The construction of the approximately 570 kilometres long railway line connected Celje to Vienna and Trieste, this constituting one of the first milestones in the development of the city's economy. In the middle of the road located next to the railway station, you will find the largest plane tree in Slovenia, which was declared Tree of the Year in 2006. Because of its unique and grandiose nature, the course of the new road through the city was routed around it so that the more than 120-year-old plane tree has been preserved to present day.

CELJE MUNICIPAL SAVINGS BANK 2

The exceptional Neo-Renaissance palace with a rich façade thought out to the last detail was built in 1887 following the example of Henrik's Manor in Vienna and houses the Celje Municipal Savings Bank.

CELJE HALL 3

The former German Deutsches Haus on Krekov trg was built in a Neo-Gothic style. It was constructed in 1905 and 1906 by the German inhabitants of Celje to act as a counterweight to the Slovenian Community Centre (Narodni dom). Until the dissolution of former Austria-Hungary, it was deemed the social centre of the local German bourgeoisie. Afterwards, it was renamed the Celje Hall and housed the local movie theatre. Today, it houses the Celje Tourist Information Centre.

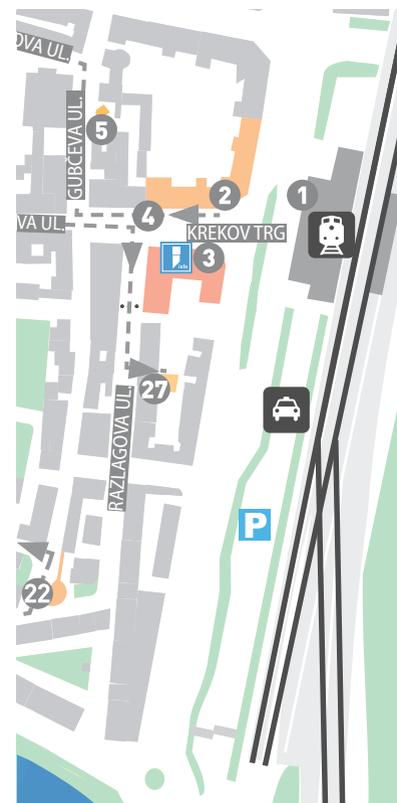

ALMA M. KARLIN'S STATUE 4

The statue is devoted to the globetrotter, authoress, polyglot and Theosophian Alma M. Karlin. Alma M. Karlin was born in 1889, travelled around the world on her own and later returned to Celje. She died in 1950 in a small house in Pečovnik, where you can visit an exhibition dedicated to her life. The Celje Regional Museum has been bestowed with the honour of putting a permanent exhibition dedicated to her life and her journey around the world on display.

EARLY CHRISTIAN BAPTISTERY 5

Gubčeva ulica (Gubec Street) houses an early Christian baptistery with a baptismal pool, built at the turn of the 4th/5th centuries that probably formed part of a larger church complex built in that part of the city.

PEOPLE'S SAVINGS BANK 6

The People's Savings Bank was designed by renowned Slovenian architect Jože Plečnik and constitutes the most important facility in the city dating back to the Inter-War Period, unique for its column-supported balconies that grace the main entrance of the building.

MUNICIPAL MARKET 7

The well-stocked Municipal Market constitutes one of the most popular meeting places in the city where you can also try numerous home-made delicacies. Its refurbished design has earned it a place among the 39 best projects running for the European Prize for Contemporary Architecture (Mies van der Rohe Award).

CITY HALL 8 (Museum of Recent History Celje)

The City Hall dating back to the 17th century marks one of the most prominent buildings in the city centre, unique for its Renaissance core and Classical façade with a balcony. During the first half of the 19th century, it was subject to extensive rebuilding for City Hall purposes, whereas nowadays it houses the Museum of Recent History Celje and the only museum for children in Slovenia, Herman's Den.

THE ASSUMPTION OF MARY CHURCH 9

The Romanesque church (13th century) was built as an integral part of a Minorite convent. Its original appearance was not preserved, having been adversely affected by several fires, the most destructive of all being in 1798, which also destroyed a major portion of Celje.

PROTHASI MANOR 10

The 18th-century manor named after its Lord Anton pl. Prothasi constitutes an isolated example of architecture of that time. Today, it houses judicial offices and a wedding hall.

CELJE PEOPLE'S THEATRE WITH THE GUARD TOWER 11

The North-western guard tower of the former city walls now forms part of the Celje People's Theatre, which was built in 1885. As early as 1825, the guard tower, which used to house the city torture chamber, was used by travelling actor troupes. In 1849, the play Micka, the Mayor's Daughter, written by playwright A. T. Linhart, was performed in Slovenian for the first time.

THE WAR AND PEACE MONUMENT 12

The expressive monument was erected in 1954–1958 to commemorate the victims of World War II and belongs to the best National Liberation Struggle monuments in terms of its design. The monument is erected on a 10-metre-tall granite block. The bronze figures symbolically stand for the sculptor's vision of war and peace.

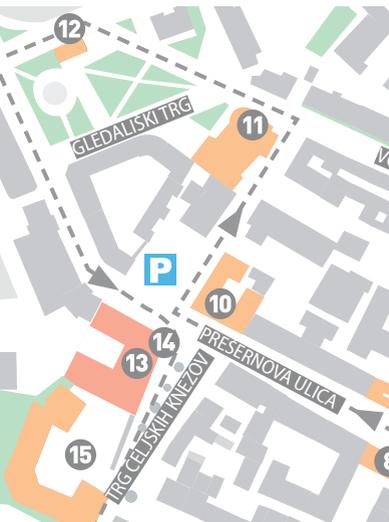

CELJE COMMUNITY CENTRE 13

The Neo-Renaissance Celje Community Centre located at Trg celjskih knezov (Counts of Celje Square) was built in 1895 and 1896 and designed by Czech architect Vladimír Hrásky. In the former Habsburg Monarchy, the Community Centre constituted the cultural and social centre of the Slovenian bourgeoisie in Celje, whereas nowadays it houses the Urban Municipality of Celje.

PRINCELY PALACE 15

In the 14th and 15th centuries, it served as the residence of the Counts of Celje. After they died out, the building housed the Prince's or Grand Duke's office and, in the mid-18th century, was refurbished into a barracks. The building as it is known today has experienced significant changes, most radically during the reign of Empress Maria-Theresa. Nowadays, a part of the Princely Palace the Celje Gallery of Contemporary Art and two permanent exhibitions of the Celje Regional Museum: the Celeia – a town beneath today's town archaeological exhibition space and the Counts of Celje Exhibition.

JOSIP PELIKAN'S STATUE 14

The statue is dedicated to Celje photographer Josip Pelikan, of Czech descent, who was born in 1885 in Tarvisio. To commemorate him, the Museum of Recent History Celje preserved his photography studio where original equipment, including a glass parlour, are on display.

CELJE CENTRAL LIBRARY 16

The Celje Central Library can be found on one of the most beautiful locations of the Princes' City – by the Savinja River. In January 2010, the doors of the refurbished 4700 square meter library were opened to an area of inspiration, life-long learning and creativity. The library is open all-day long and almost all days of the year. Its services contribute to the quality of life in the community, its events for all ages facilitate relaxation and high-quality spending of leisure time and it also provides all its visitors with free-of-charge internet access and creates a lively cultural and social throb in the city by the Savinja River – in its centre in particular. Its 16,000 active members, 370,000 units of library materials and 1,000,000 visits per year make it the most frequently visited cultural institution in Celje and the third largest library in Slovenia. It also includes the Miško Knjižko Café and Sweet Shop, where you can enjoy the most delightful views of our city.

OLD COUNTS' MANSION 17 (Celje Regional Museum)

The most beautiful Renaissance building was constructed between 1580 and 1603 along the Southern part of the city walls, on the very spot where administrative and agricultural buildings of the Celje Lower Castle had been erected previously. At the beginning of the 17th century, arcaded hallways were added. In 1869, it was purchased by the Municipality of Celje. Since then, the designated function thereof has changed several times. During refurbishment in 1926, the renowned »Celje Ceiling« was found. An open-air lapidarium can be found behind it.

QUARTER HOUSE WITH ALFRED NOBEL'S STATUE 18

The building used to serve as an accommodation facility for troops and constitutes an example of preserved Early Renaissance architecture. An interesting feature thereof is the semi-circle portal and bust of Alfred Nobel, who used to visit his mistress Sofija Hess there. Today, it houses the headquarters of the Celje Tourist Association and the Quarter House Gallery.

THE ARTISTS' QUARTER 19

Art lovers can visit the Artists' Quarter, located in the historic city centre, where art studios and a gallery of artists' works are on display.

ST. DANIEL'S CHURCH 20

The present-day Celje Cathedral was originally a Romanesque single-nave church. After several rebuilds, it acquired its current appearance in the second half of the 20th century. In 2001, a chapel devoted to bishop and author Anton Martin Slomšek, whose statue is located by the church, was added. Among other things, you can also see a valuable item from the Gothic period – the sanctuary of Our Lady of Sorrow, decorated with rich masonry, and a stone sculpture of the Pieta, medieval paintings and a Venetian-style main altar.

MUNICIPAL POORHOUSE WITH ST. ELIZABETH'S CHAPEL 21

This is the only example of a preserved medieval poorhouse in Slovenia, dating from the 15th century. In the 19th century, it served as the municipal hospital but continues to constitute an intriguing complex of facilities in ambient terms. On the exterior, you can observe a stone bearing the year 1726 that constitutes a collection plate where alms for patients were placed.

THE WATER TOWER 22

The South-eastern corner guard tower forms part of the medieval city walls and is also called the Almshouse Tower. It was built in the second half of the 15th century and constitutes one of only four city towers that have been preserved to this day. An interesting feature of the Water Tower is the tablet with an inscription and a stuck-out finger indicating the level of water during the 1672 flood.

ST. MARY'S SHRINE 23

Mary's statue was erected at the same spot where a vicious killer was once executed – so as to have Mary protect locals from similar atrocities. A statue of the Virgin Mary was erected on top of a tall column, surrounded by Baroque statues of St. Rocus, St. Florian and St. Joseph from the 19th century.

HOHENWARTER HOUSE 24

The Hohenwarter House is an example of a lavish house from Humanism and awakening Renaissance. The Renaissance portal with a Latin and German inscription bearing the years 1543 and 1673 carved one on top of the other is of interest.

THE WELL 26

The stone well of approximately 1.40 m in diameter was discovered in 2013 during construction work. It supposedly dates from the Late Roman period. A coat-of-arms with three stars and the year 1781 can be observed on the upper rim.

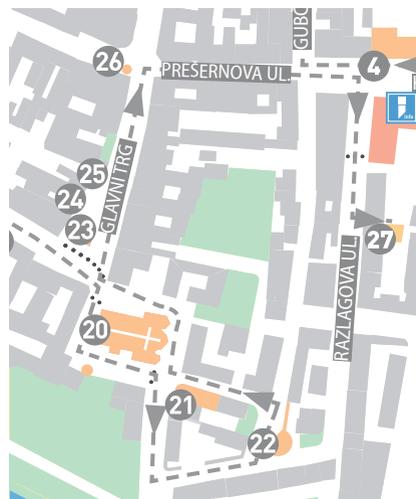

ARCHAEOLOGICAL FINDS AT MAIN SQUARE 25

During the refurbishment of the Glavni trg (Main Square), the rooms of two urban Roman villas and a Roman road with a colonnade-covered pavement were examined. The two villas were lavishly furnished with wall paintings, floor mosaics and a hypocaust system. A part of the finds will be presented in-situ and will be on display to the public.

SKYLIGHT PHOTOGRAPHIC STUDIO OF JOSIP PELIKAN 27

The 1899 glass photography studio presents the life and work of the master of photography from Celje Josip Pelikan. His original equipment and glass parlour are on display.

MUSEUMS AND GALLERIES

Culture discreetly accompanies you in Celje every step of the way – the lively events are the result of a diverse musical, fine art, theatre and other cultural programme. Do not forget to visit the unique CELEIA – a town beneath today's town archaeological exhibition space and the only museum for children in Slovenia, Herman's Den, as well as the Račka Gallery of Erotica and the Artists' Quarter, where independent visual artists of various profiles are active.

THE ARTISTS' QUARTER (05)

The Artists' Quarter between the start of Gosposka ulica and Na okopih, or the embankment of Savinja, was created between 2004 and 2005, when the former crafts and boutique facilities were leased to Celje artists by the Urban Municipality of Celje, and constitutes one of the few comprehensively rounded-up creative areas in Slovenia that has formed an integral part of the cultural and art scene in Celje for almost a decade. At the moment, 10 artists (painters, a sculptress, two photographers, a performing artist and musician) and a gallery run by the artists themselves are operating in this independent community that often collaborates with other artists and cultural professionals from Celje and elsewhere and organises events in cooperation with public institutes and catering establishments in the immediate vicinity. Even though works of art can be purchased at the art studios, the contents or approaches are not of a commercial nature. The Artists' Quarter provides locals and visitors with creative content, a diverse art programme and an area where you can gladly stay for a while and bring together creative ideas.

Romantic, seductive, mighty, dark, scary ...
Old Castle Celje. A definite must-see in Celje that you cannot miss no matter which direction you are coming from. The mighty castle with its walls ruling over the hill above the city for centuries will leave you speechless once you gaze on it from afar. Once you visit it, it stays in your memory forever.

OLD CASTLE CELJE

In the past...

Old Castle Celje was built by the Counts of Heunberg in the second half of the 12th century. After the dynasty became extinct, the castle was taken over by the Lords of Sanneck. After they moved to the confluence of Savinja and Voglajna rivers, they changed their name to the Counts of Celje and began to turn the castle into a modern residential building. In the time of Herman II of Celje, who was the strongest and most influential ruler of the Celje dynasty, the counts reached the peak of their glory, successfully integrating themselves into the European political elite, and became connected to the most important noble dynasties of that time. In the year 1436, Sigismund of Luxembourg elevated two representatives of the dynasty, Frederick II of Celje and Ulrich II, to the ranks of Princes of the Holy Roman Empire. With the death of the last male descendant of the Celje dynasty 20 years later, one of the most important periods of Celje's history was over.

In the 14th century, the Counts of Celje built the so-called "bergfrid" on a hill. The guard tower with walls as thick as 3 meters served as the last refuge from attackers. The first floor of the 23 meter-high tower was a darkroom and above it were spaces intended for storage of weaponry and other equipment. The top floor of the original building was surrounded by a defence passageway.

The tower was named after Frederick II, the first-born son of Herman II. He disapproved of his son's marriage to Veronika of Desenice and had Frederick imprisoned in the guard tower and his wife never-to-be killed.

The youngest daughter of Herman II, Barbara of Celje, was also an important figure of the Celje dynasty. Emotions ran high because of her free thinking, religious tolerance and especially her interest in alchemy and astrology long after she died. She was crowned as the Hungarian, German and Czech queen. Elisabeth of Habsburg, the granddaughter of Barbara of Celje, married Casimir IV Jagiellon, king of Poland. They had 13 children, out of which 10 survived.

... and today

The image and the intended use of the castle have changed many times since the glory days of the Celje dynasty, whereas the rocks of the castle have also been used in the construction of the buildings nearby. Today, the renovated castle has become an attractive tourist spot, offering a beautiful view of the city and its outskirts.

Visitors are welcome to visit the modern Tourist Information Centre and Veronika Café. At the Tourist Information Centre, visitors may gather promotional brochures as well as information material about the castle, Celje and its surroundings and information about sightseeing and entertainment events in Celje.

There are a variety of souvenirs and items produced by the cottage industry and artistic crafts to choose from as well as the official I FEEL SLOVENIA Slovene souvenirs and all kinds of literature. Every last Saturday in August, Old Castle Celje is the venue of the traditional medieval performance called "The Land of Celje Invites", and during summer, it is the site of the Living History programme, where visitors have the chance to play a part in the "living" history and fence with knights, shoot using a bow, flirt with the castle princes and princesses and participate in medieval workshops ...

RELAXATION AND LEISURE

Have you had enough of wandering around city and need an active break? For many locals, sports have always been a synonym for the city itself. We recommend a hike to the Celjska koča and a test of your skills in the Adventure Park or an adrenaline ride in a bob cart. Borrow a vessel and embark on a romantic journey across Lake Šmartinsko jezero and get your adrenaline pumping with zorbing. For those who cannot get by without cheering – visit a handball match in the Zlatorog Hall, a football match in Arena Petrol or a hockey game in the Ice Hall. The Heart Path in the City Park is perfect for jogging or simply taking a walk!

Near Savinja River

CITY PARK WITH RAFTER STATUE AND LAPIDARIUM (01)

The park is a popular city promenade and a site for summer events.

The statue of a rafter is located between Celje Central Library and the bridge over Savinja River as a remembrance of the waterway that was used by the raftsmen to transport wood on rafts on Savinja River all the way to the Sava River and then towards the south.

In the immediate area, also near Celje Central Library and the Celje Regional Museum, you can find the lapidarium with the display of the finds from the Roman Celeia such as: tomb remains, marble blocks, Roman milestones and a Renaissance fountain decorated with mythological images.

CITY FOREST (03)

A settled and well-equipped net of 12 forest routes measuring 14 kilometres in length stretches over 100 hectares of compact forests. The area is located in the immediate vicinity of the city centre and represents a popular "city" recreation yard.

SAINT NICHOLAS' CHURCH

The church is located on the hill over the city park and is dedicated to Saint Nicholas, the patron saint of raftsmen. In the past, raftsmen on their route on the Savinja River said special prayers on this spot for a safe journey, whereas today the church is a popular walking point, offering a beautiful view over the Celje basin.

SAINT CECELIA'S CHURCH (02)

On the top of the hill near the city park, you can find the Franciscan Saint Cecilia's church, with about a hundred wooden stairs leading up to it. The church and the convent were built during the counter-reformation period.

(03)

Areas nearby

KALVARIJA

The famous Kalvarija stands on Joseph's hill; it comprises four out of the five chapels and the Golgota group on the top of the hill.

SAINT JOSEPH'S CHURCH (04)

The church was built in 1680 as a thanks for the defeated plague, which had spread through the city. The church has a simple architectural base with two belfries on each side of the gate. Above the portal is a statue of St. Joseph leaning towards Jesus.

(05)

SAINT MAXIMILIAN'S CHURCH AND THE TRUBAR STATUE

The church was built around the year 1300. It is named after the Celje bishop and saint St. Maximilian who was supposedly beheaded on this spot. On the green plot next to the church is a statue of Primož Trubar, a protestant priest, the founder of the Slovene literary language and the author of the first book printed in the Slovene language.

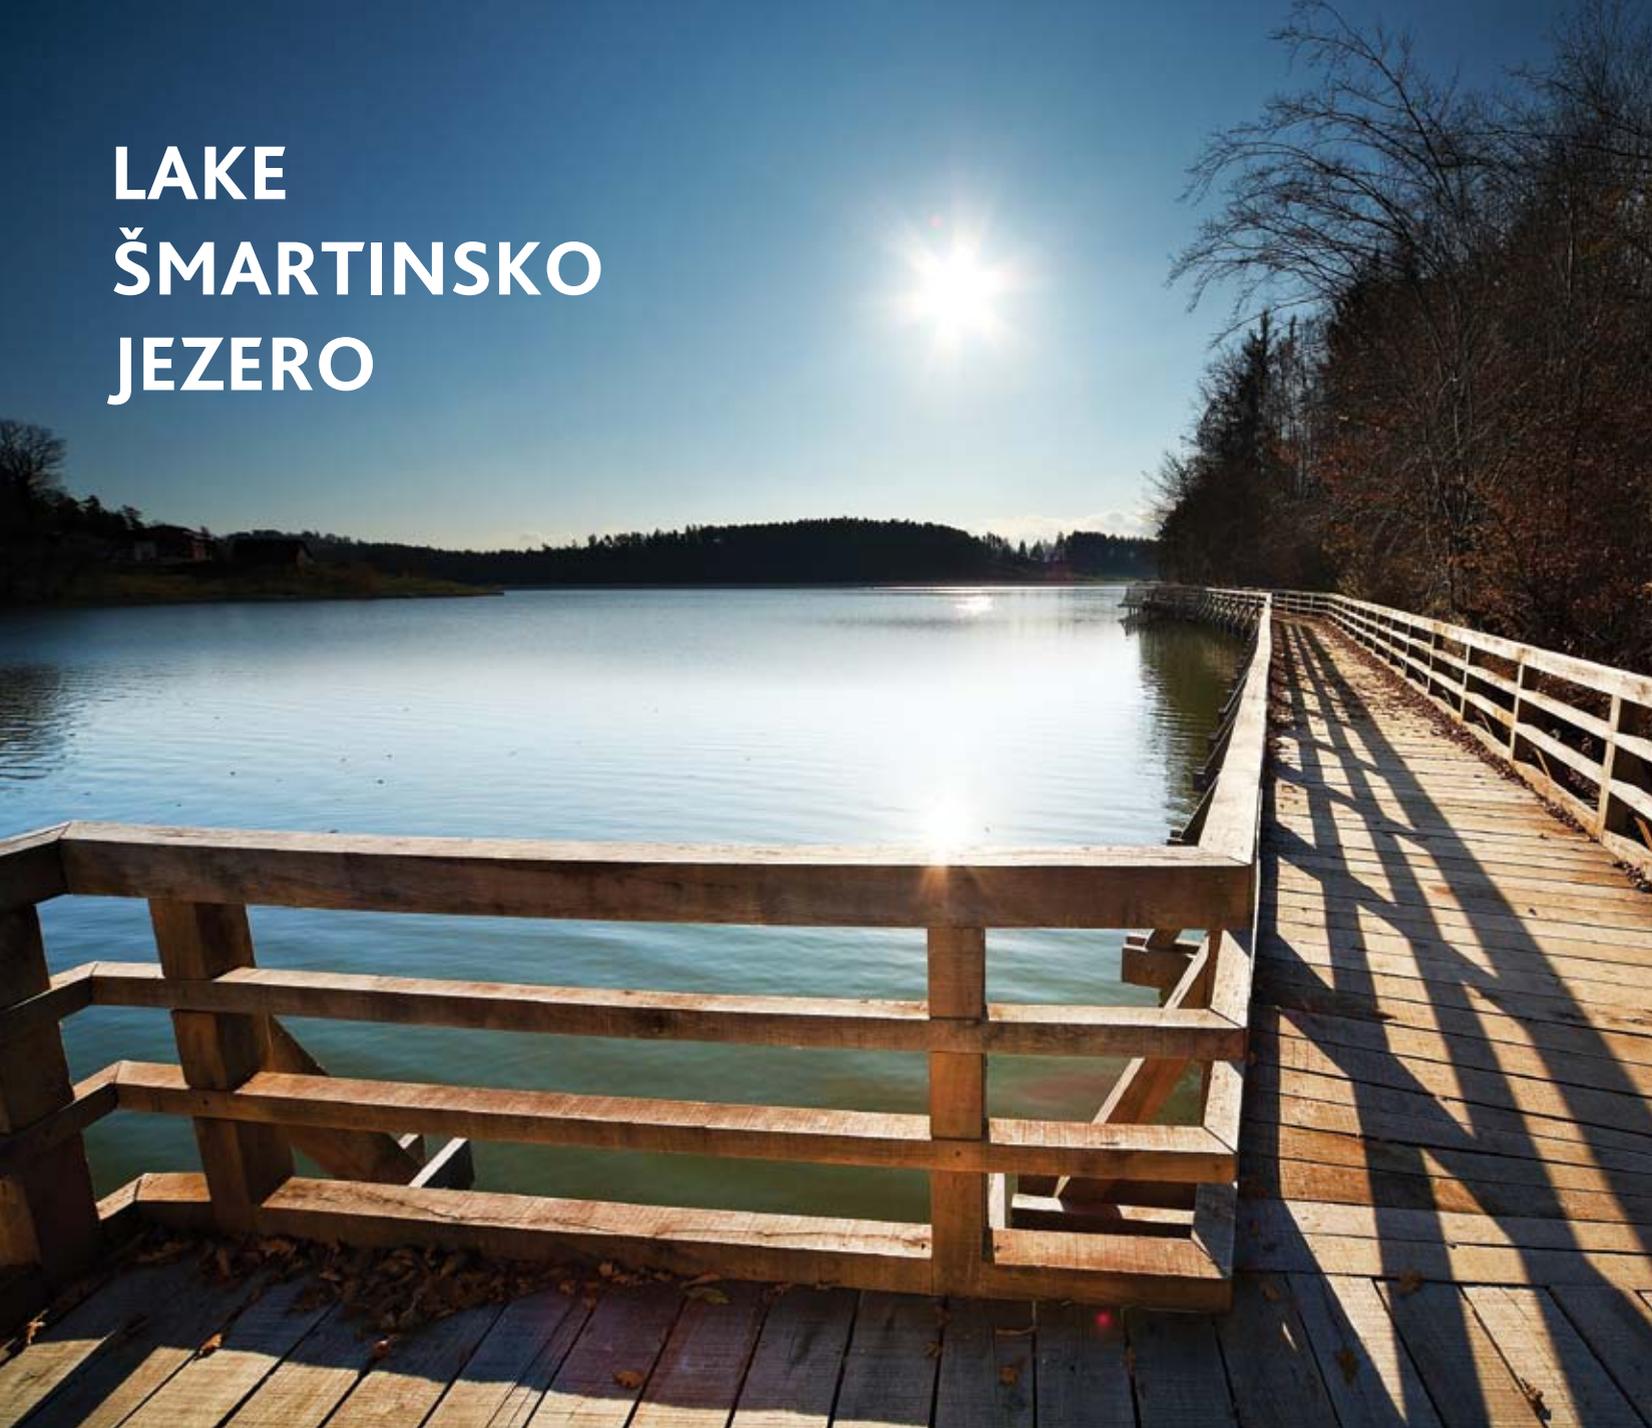

ALMA IN PEČOVNIK (05)

In Pečovnik, at the outskirts of city, you can find the house that was to be home to Alma M. Karlin and her friend Thea in the last years of her life. She was a globetrotter, writer, polyglot and Theosophian, born in 1889 to bourgeois parents. In 1901, she set off on a trip around the world that lasted eight years. In her life, she wrote many books and articles and collected a series of ethnological materials, part of which is on display in the Celje Regional Museum. Her life's journey ended in Pečovnik in 1950, where an exhibition of her life is on display.

LAKE ŠMARTINSKO JEZERO

Near the lake

A settled biking route and footpath starts at the Church of the Holy Ghost, from where a secured and nicely marked path leads directly to the lake. The path is intended for both walking and biking. At first, it runs along the local road with a security fence and then turns to the meadows and fields. At the lake, it joins with a footpath that splits in two directions: on the left, you can take the rounded path past the Lake Queen boat. Later on, you continue through one of the many lake channels, www.smartinsko-jezero.com

Lake Šmartinsko jezero in the immediate vicinity of Celje is an attractive walking point due to its diverse coast and interesting surroundings. It came into existence in 1970 after the construction of the 18.5 m tall and 205 m long Loče barrier and stretches over 113 ha of lake surface. Beside its primary function, i.e. to restrain high waters, the lake and its surroundings have, through time, turned into a recreational, sport and tourist area, which is growing even more popular with each passing year. Given its arranged appearance and intact nature, and especially the safe and settled path to and around the lake, the area is suitable for jogging, biking and trekking. Near the lake, there is also the option of recreation on water - you can rent a boat, kayak or pedalo or you can take a boat ride with the Lake Queen boat. Close by, there is also a golf course and picnic plots you can rent.

cross the floating bridge at the Muzelj boathouse and return to the boat. If you walk to the other side and turn right at the merger of the route with the footpath, you can take a stroll on the footpath leading through a forest. You can return on the same path or take the local asphalt road. Wooden benches are placed all along the way, so you can rest and relax, and you can read about the lake and the life therein on the information boards close to water.
